GOOD ROADS AND BRIDGE BUILDING

EXAMPLE OF WHAT CAN BE DONE WITH CAREFUL SUPERVISION.

THE STATE AIDS IN BOTH

Bridge in the Town of Harmony an Example of Bridge-Building That Other Towns Can Do Well to Follow

For several years past the Gazette has been favoring good roads in the country and cities of Rock county. Many have been built and others are in process of construction. Where the roads have been made in places held down by competent authorities their worth has been demonstrated. In the town of Plymouth a road constructed last year has stood the wear and tear of the spring and wet summer in remarkable manner. From a mud-hole it has been converted into a dry, hard road suitable for all sorts of traffic. Near Clinton another road was built last season under Government supervision which is so good that Clinton is building another as near like it as possible.

Mr. Halvor Skavlen, elected by the county board to look after the construction of highways, reports that the interest in good roads throughout the county is growing; that the interest in road-building has increased materially within the past two years and that within the next few years there will be miles of excellent thoroughfares throughout the county.

The state highway division of the Wisconsin Geological survey has a standing offer to add to any town seeking to build roads or bridges and the following communication from the chairman of the town of Harmony, where a new bridge has recently been constructed is an example of what can be done with careful supervision and good plans by a competent engineer.

Editor, Janesville Gazette,
Janesville, Wis.:

Dear Sir: I thought it might be of interest to others in Rock county to know what our experience has been in the building of the Hoskins bridge just completed in the town of Harmony.

This spring the town instructed the town board to rebuild the Hoskins bridge and having learned that the highway division of the Wisconsin Geological survey was offering the towns free engineering advice in building bridges we wrote to them asking for plans. Mr. M. W. Torkelson, their bridge engineer, came down, looked over the site, and with us decided upon the type of bridge needed. After he had made the plans and furnished us with his estimate of the cost, bids were asked for and the contract let on May 11th to the lowest bidder.

The letting was done under open bids, four of them sealed, and two of them being within $15 of the estimate, showing the benefit of standard plans and true competition.

The contract was signed with the Wisconsin bridge and iron works at a figure very close to the engineer's estimate. They got to work promptly and finished June 23rd. Mr. Torkelson visited the bridge July 1st and advised its acceptance as a complete job.

The bridge is 621-foot span, 16 feet wide in the center and designed to carry a 15-ton roller or engine. It has a concrete floor which will last as long as the bridge, so the future cost to the town will be for painting. I believe it is the strongest bridge in Rock county and the cheapest, strength and weight considered.

The plans and other assistance from the highway division cost the town absolutely nothing. I feel that their service has been worth many dollars to the town, and can recommend others to avail themselves of their help as I feel that the town's interest would be safe in their hands, and a good, cheap bridge secured.

I have never been interested in a piece of public work which was cleaner cut from beginning to end, or less worry all around than this one has been.

Yours very truly,

E. M. ROACH,

Chairman, Town of Harmony.

There is no argument needed in these days to convince anyone of the value of good roads to a community. Every intelligent person realizes that good roads are of great financial value to a community. They raise the value of land, make possible a ready access to market and thereby encourage the growing of higher priced products on the farms; they make easier the movement of farm and more business, therefore, for the villages and cities and railroads, which depend upon the farmers either directly or indirectly for a large share of their trade.

Each season finds this census a step also financial benefit which good roads bring to a community there is another and far greater benefit which cannot be estimated in dollars and cents. This larger benefit consists in the increased ease of getting about, and the consequent improvement in social and educational conditions.

So many and so obvious are the advantages of good roads that very few persons have the temerity to claim that our present poor roads are more desirable or more suited to our conditions.

Then what is the question that occasions all this discussion of poor roads? It is the question of who shall pay.

The logical answer to this question is every person or corporation that is benefited.

The present system of paying for roads in this state is unjust in that it requires the farmer to pay for the roads which benefit all other business in the state. Every city and village merchant who has a farmer trade knows what a considerable effect the condition of the roads has on his business.

RINGLING BROS. COMING

World's Greatest Circus Soon to Visit Janesville.

Ringling Brothers' World's Greatest Show is scheduled to come to Janesville on Thursday, July 30, with a complete new outfit, an entirely different parade from those seen in the past, an enlarged menagerie, a new introductory spectacle, and a company of European performers, the equal of which has never in the past been assembled under one management.

Each season finds this circus a step in advance of its past splendid record. The progress that will be noted this year is exceptional. It manifests itself first in the new parade, built by foreign artists and artisans. As visitors approach the show grounds it becomes more evident in the great sea of canvas stretching over fourteen acres of ground. The vastness of it all strikes forcibly as one enters the exhibition tent reaching for hundreds of feet, one walked with a veritable jungle of strange animals and the other a labyrinth of stables, cages, arenas and gymnastic and aerial rigging extending to the very dome.

A new and extravagant spectacle begins the program this season, built more elaborately and of greater cost than any of the past. The acts that follow, all of European origin, were booked last winter by the foreign agents of the show, care being taken to select nothing resembling any act ever before seen in America. The result of this policy has given a performance delightful in novelty and varied enough to suit all tastes.

The magic touch of the Ringling management is evident throughout every department. It is in truth a wonderful show that this season reaches the quarter-century mark in its remarkable history. Every old feature has been dropped and only the newest of the world's wonders are found under the great tents.

An automobile double somersault caps the climax of this year's unique bill. It is the first instance in which an automobile has made two complete revolutions in mid-air. The act is almost appalling in its danger. The thought of it suggests tragedy, yet it is accomplished with triumph at every performance by a mere slip of a girl. The act is not to be mentioned in connection with other mere "stunts" that have in the past been advertised as thrillers.

RIDDER PROMISES TO SUPPORT BRYAN

MESSAGE FROM EDITOR OF THE
NEW YORK STAATS ZEITUNG.

CHEERFUL FOR NOMINEE

Gov. Johnson's Services to Be Used in Campaign—Offer of White House Quarters to Kern
a Joke.

Fairview, Lincoln, Neb., July 13.—
"You may rely on the sincere and earnest support of the New York Staats Zeitung, Herman Ridder."

This telegram sent by the New York editor from some Kansas town, the name of which could not be deciphered, was received by W. J. Bryan at Fairview Sunday, and although Mr.
Bryan made no comment, his pleasure was evident in the buoyant tone in which he read the statement.

It was Mr. Ridder who, before the Denver convention, called here with the announced intention of asking Mr.
Bryan to withdraw from the field on the ground, in Mr. Ridder's opinion, that Mr. Bryan could not win in November, Lincoln Democrats declare that Mr. Ridder did not press this point, however, upon visiting Fairview.
He departed from Lincoln in a happy frame of mind with Mr. Bryan's "O.
K." on his free wood pulp plank.

Bryan May Select Chairman.

Dr. P. L. Hall, Nebraska's new member of the national committee, discussed with Mr. Bryan Sunday the arrangements for Bryan's meeting with the committee here Tuesday. The qualifications of a number of men for the position of chairman of the committee were talked over informally, but their names were not to be learned from either Mr. Bryan or Dr. Hall.
There is a disposition to leave the final selection to Mr. Bryan. Dr. Hall admitted that he had in mind a man who he thought would beat all the others, and that Mr. Bryan had another.
However, it is predicted that the end of the meeting here will see the chairmanship a settled fact, and many details of the coming campaign mapped out at least in outline.

Mr. Bryan has received numerous tenders of the services of speakers, nearly all of them, if their letters are given full credit, being spellbinders of realistic appeal. Musicians also have been early on the ground and the men who make banners and buttons and get out printing and pictures.
Such of these matters as deserve attention will be turned over to the national committee Tuesday.

Gov. Johnson to Be Used.

Among Mr. Bryan's supporters whose activities will be given the widest range possible is Gov. Johnson of Minnesota. This word was given to some 40 or 50 of the Johnson cohorts who went from Minneapolis to Denver to fight for the governor, and who called at Fairview Sunday. In token of surrender of the Johnson forces, Lester Elwood gave his flag with Johnson's name on it to Mr. Bryan, the latter declaring that it should have a conspicuous place among the trophies of Fairview.

"The fight is over and we're with you now," was the assurance given Mr.
Bryan by Congressman Hammond, who placed Gov. Johnson in nomination.

This delegation, and one which was returning to Cleveland, O., were the only formal visitors at Fairview, both being shown through the Bryan home and chatting informally with the candidate.

White House Story a Joke.

Mr. Bryan smiled at the story of his offering to share the White House with his running mate, Mr. Kern. He admitted the facts in the case, but said the matter had always been considered a jest brought about by Mr. Kern's insistence that he was too poor to uphold the social responsibilities of the office.

Mr. Bryan has been urged by some of his friends to spend the remainder of the summer at some resort, where he could rest and gather strength for the fall campaign, but he much prefers to "live and let live" at his children's and all. He is accustomed to the climate, which, though hot in summer, is not burdened with debilitating humidity.

Denies Watson's Statement.

The following from a North Carolina editor was received at Fairview Sunday:

"Tom Watson quotes you as saying you would never vote for a confederate veteran. Does this misrepresent you?"

In reply Mr. Bryan telegraphed that he never made any such statement;
that he had voted for a confederate veteran for speaker of the house of representatives on three occasions;

EVOLUTION

More than a dozen years ago Langdon Smith, a New York newspaper man and war correspondent, wrote a poem entitled "Evolution." It was widely copied at the time, and has often been imitated, but it remains the best of its kind. Interest in it is revived now because of its author's recent death in Brooklyn. The poem in its entirety is as follows:

When you were a Tadpole and I was a Fish

In the Paleozoic time,
And side by side on the ebbing tide
We sprawled through the ooze and slime,
Or spluttered with many a caudal flip
Through the depths of the Cambrian fen,
My heart was rife with the joy of life,
For I loved you, even then.

Mindless we lived and mindless we loved,

And mindless at last we died;
And deep in a rift of the Curudoc drift
We slumbered side by side.
The world turned on the lathe of time,
The hot lands heaved again,
Till we caught our breath from the womb of death,
And crept into light again.

We were Amphibians, scaled and tubed,

And drab as a dead man's hand;
We coiled at ooze beneath the dripping
trots,
Or we trailed through the mud and sand,
Crawling and blind, with our threeclawed feet.

Writing a language dumb,
With never a spark in the empty dark
To hint at a life to come.

Yet happy we lived, and happy we

loved,
And happy we died once more;
Our forms were rolled in the clinking mold.

Of a Neocomian shore,
The cone came, and the cone fled
And the sleep that wrapped us fast
Was riven away in the newer day,
And the night of death was past.

Then light and swift through the jungle trees

We swung in our airy flights,
Or breathed in the balms of the fronded palms,
In the hush of the moonless nights,
And oh! what beautiful years were these.

When our hearts clung each to each;
When life was filled, and our senses thrilled
In the first faint dawn of speech.

Thus life by life, and love by love,

We passed through the cycles
strange,
And breath by breath, and death by death,

We followed the chain of change,
Till there came a time in the law of life

When over the nursing nod
The shadows broke, and the soul awoke
In a strange, dim dream of God.

I flaked a flint to a cutting edge,
And shaped it with British craft;
I broke a shank from the woodland dark.

And fitted it, head and haft,
Then I hid me close to the reedy tarn,
Where the Mammoth came to drink—Through bracken and bone I drove the stone,
And slew him upon the brink.

Loud I howled through the moonlit wastes,

Loud answered our kith and kin;
From the west and east to the crimson feat

The clan came trooping in,
O'er joints and gristle and puddled hoof
We fought and clawed and tore,
And cheek by jaw, with many a growl,
We talked the marvel o'er.

And that was a million years ago,

In a time that no man knows;
Yet here to-night in the mellow light
We sit at Delmonico's,
Your eyes are as deep as the Devon springs,

Your hair is as dark as jet;
Your years are few, your life is now,
Your soul undried, as yet—

Our trail is on the Kimmeridge clay,
And the scrap of the Purbeck flint.

We have left our bones in the Dangshot stones,
And deep in the Coralline crags;
Our love is old, our lives are old,
And death shall come again.

Should it come to-day, what man may say

We shall not live again?—

God wrought our souls from the Tremadoc beds
And furnished them wings to fly;
He sowed our spawn in the world's dim dawn,

And I know that it shall not die, Though cities have sprung above the graves

Where the crooked-boned men made
war,
And the ox-wain creaks o'er the buried caves

Where the mummied mammoths are.

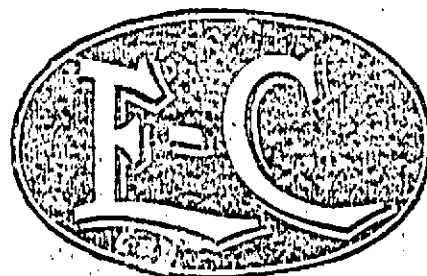

Then as we linger at luncheon here,
O'er many a dainty dish,
Let us drink anew to the time when you

Were a Tadpole and I was a Fish.

tablished by the fact that he can't

STORM FOLLOWED THE HOT WEATHER

LAST SATURDAY'S HIGH TEMPERATURE FOLLOWED BY ELECTRIC STORMS.

LIGHTNING DOES DAMAGE

Fuses Were Burnt out in Telephones and Fire Alarms and Darns Were Burnt.

Saturday's hot wave was followed in the evening and on Sunday at noon and in the evening by a severe electric storm, which did considerable damage through the city and county. Saturday was the banner day of the present season as high temperatures were concerned. Friday night was very warm and muggy and at nine o'clock Saturday morning thermometers all over the city had passed the 80 degree mark and were rapidly climbing toward ninety degrees. Registered thermometers went as high as 94 in the shade. Other thermometers went as high as 102.

The workmen at the Dwight green house suffered especially from the heat and at about noon the thermometer registered 118. In the afternoon a breeze sprang up and the heat diminished a little. About six o'clock clouds began rolling in from the west and northwest and gliding flashes of lightning announced the coming of an electrical storm. Numerous fuses in the fire alarm system were burnt out, but the damage was merely nominal. The telephone companies suffered more or less in having the instruments burnt out, the Rock county company sustaining more damage on the west side of the river.

The storm did not carry with it more than an ordinary amount of rain and the damage which was done was entirely caused by the lightning.

While riding down South Main street about eight o'clock Saturday evening Miss Hazel Howe had a narrow escape. The horse on which she was riding, frightened by the flashes of lightning, reared up and fell back upon the pavement. Miss Howe was thrown off, but fortunately escaped with a few bruises and the horse also was unhurt.

Three interurban cars were damaged by the storm yesterday noon. The lightning struck the trolley wires and ran down into the motors burning them out so that the cars will have to be sent to the repair shops. Car No. 709 of the Freeport division was struck near Roscoe, No. 703, a baggage car was hit near the power house at Beloit, and No. 707 was struck near Yost Park. All the cars were able to come in under their own power by using a second set of motors.

Saturday evening a tornado shed on a farm near Broadhead, owned by Geo. E. Dixon and occupied by A. S. Post, was struck by lightning and somewhat damaged. The storm yesterday noon seemed to do as much or more damage. In addition to striking the interurban cars a number of barns in the county were struck. Three barns near Delavan were hit and burned with practically all their contents. The house of John Yahn on Fifth avenue was struck yesterday noon and the chimney demolished.

Dr. A. L. Hurdick sustained a peculiar accident yesterday noon. He had gone out to help a boy drive in some chickens and was standing with his hand on a wire fence. As he saw a flash of lightning he felt a shock in his arm. The bolt had run along the wire and the shock to Dr. Hurdick's arm was sufficient to burn it for some time and leave it rather sore today. Almost immediately after this the lightning struck the house of Mr. Yahn next door.

PLAN OUTING FOR TENEMENT WAIFS

Summer Club of Household Economics Appropriates $25 As Nucleus For Fund.

Twenty or thirty little children from the Chicago tenements will be given a two weeks' outing in Rock county. If the present plans of the Summer Club of Household Economics do not miscarry. At a meeting in Footville on Friday $25 was voted toward this purpose and a committee consisting of Mrs. C. V. Korah and Mrs. Janet Day of Janesville, Mrs. H. C. Taylor of Orfordville, Mrs. McGee of Afton, Mrs. Borthin Gandel and Mrs. Ellinger of Hanover, and Mrs. Edgerton of Footville, were appointed to make the arrangements. Those who are willing to take the children either free of charge or for a slight board consideration are requested to notify any members of the committee and contributions to the fund will also be welcomed, with assurance that they will be used to the best advantage. Cities and towns smaller than Janesville have been earlier for as many as fifty for a fortnight each summer. Milford has annually cared for her squad of city children without outside assistance. It is desirable that at least two be placed together with any single family, in order that each may have company and sympathy in the enjoyment of a new environment. The railroads generously furnish transportation without cost and it is hoped that the plan will be enthusiastically supported in Janesville and vicinity. The committee will meet at the home of Mrs. Walter Holmes, 214 South Bluff street, Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock and all who are interested and would care to help in the work are cordially urged to attend.

Stockholders' Meeting. The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Merchants and Mechanics' Savings Bank of Janesville, Wisconsin, will be held at the office of said bank on Tuesday, July 14th, 1908, at 4:30 o'clock p. m. for the election of directors and for the transaction of any other business that may properly come before the meeting.

A SURE THING.

"Gentlemen," said a man on the rear platform of the street car to five or six others of us, "there is to be no more hard times. The last of the panic has vanished."

"How do you make that out?" was asked.

"I saw Bryan at Denver and had a long talk with him. In fact, I went there for the purpose. We sat down like two old chums, and I told him that times were so tight that the East that many of us couldn't get a glass of beer a week. He is going to establish one thousand free breweries as soon as he takes his seat."

"Then I told him about the high price of meat. He doesn't eat it, and had heard nothing about it. He promptly said, however, that he would put the best porterhouse steaks into market from his farm in Nebraska at eight cents a pound. He said seven at first, but I told him we'd gladly pay eight."

"Then I told him how potatoes and other vegetables had advanced, and he promised to look into the matter at once. I suggested the hanging of about a hundred farmers and two hundred grocers on a great moral issue, and he said he would think of it seriously."

"Then I told him that wheat had jumped fifty cents a bushel in the last year, and he could hardly believe it. He is going to furnish a million cowboys and open a hundred sheep factories, and you'll see the price drop to a dollar a bushel."

"And, lastly, I told him about the scarcity of money with us, and he made a memorandum on a piece of paper that he was to send a hundred million dollars East next day and have trusty agents see that we all got our share. Whoopi Hurrall! Anybody that don't want to live now ought to be kicked to death by a mule."

"By gosh!" said Uncle Timson Tabbals, after he had returned from a week-end visit in the city. "It's simply wonderful what practice'll do for people. RECORDED THE TRUTH ALWAYS.
Wordsworth's Poetry Set Against His Failure as Correspondent.

Wordsworth, except by virtue of one quality, was not remarkable as a letter writer. His happiest moods were those "trances of thought and mountings of the mind" which came to him when wandering among the hills or seated upon some old, gray stone. The act of penmanship was always a distress to him; in his older years he was troubled with inflammation of the eyes, and he often dictated his letters. He could chain his mind to record facts, but to do so implied a state of servitude. He cared little for the letters of great writers, and expressed a wish that his own might be destroyed. He had no pleasant malice eager to escape from the tip of the pen, such as Horace Walpole had. He had no bubbling mirth which will not be repressed like that of Lauch. He could not engrave an exquisite vignette for a friend's delight and his own, like Cowper. His pen was not an other's sword, nor a dagger to stab, nor a sword to cut, nor a hobby horse on which to canter, but to set ever against all this Wordsworth could write the truth, and the truth he invariably wrote.

Sophy & Kravonia

by ANTHONY HOPE
Author of "The Prisoner of Zenda"
Copyright, 1908, Anthony Hope Hawkins

She went at night up on to the wall, always her favorite place. She loved the spaciousness of air and open country before her there. Thus Williamson found her deep in thought when he came to tell her of the progress of the war.

"They're all doing well, and Peter Vasep will live. Dunstanbury has made him promise to come to him when he's recovered, so you'll meet him again at all events. And Maudie Zerkovitch and her husband talk of settling in Paris. You won't lose all your Kravonian friends."

"You assume that I'm coming with you tomorrow morning?"
"You quite safe in assuming that Dunstanbury won't go unless you do,"
he answered, smiling. "We can't leave you alone here, you know."

"I shouldn't stay here anyhow," she said, "or at any rate I should be where nobody could hurt me." She pointed at a dim lantern fastened to the gate tower by an iron clamp. Then raised her hand toward the surrounding darkness. "That's life, isn't it?" she asked.

"If I believed that I could go to monsieur, I would go tonight—yes, I would have gone at midnight. It was only putting my head out of that ditch a minute sooner. If I believed even that I could be in the church there and know that he was near! If I believed even that I could be there quietly and remember and think of him!"

"You're a man of science; you're not a poet's child, as I am. What do you think? You mustn't wonder that I've had my thoughts too. At last, Maudie, we did little else than try to find out whether we were going anywhere else.
That's all she could about. And if she does ever get to a next world she won't care about that. She'll only go on trying to find out whether there's still an other beyond. What do you think?"

"I hardly expected to find you so philosophically inclined," he said.
"It's a practical question with me now. On its answer depends whether I come with you or stay here—by monsieur in the church."

Dunstanbury said something professional—something about nerves and temporary strain. But he performed this homage to medical etiquette in a rather perfunctory fashion. He had never seen a woman more composed or more obviously and perfectly healthy. Sophy smiled and went on.

"But if I live, I'm sure at least of being able to think and abide to remember. It comes to a gamble, doesn't it?
It's just possible I might get more; it's quite likely I think I'm probable—I should lose even what I have now."

"I think you're probably right about the chances of the gamble," he told her, "though no doubt certainly is out of place or at least one doesn't talk about it. Shall I tell you what science says?"

"No," said Sophy, smiling faintly.
"Science thinks in multitudes, and I'm thinking of the individual tonight.
Even Lady Meg never made much of science, you know."

He pointed at the smoky lantern.
"That's not life," he said, growing more earnest, yet smiling. "That's not —just here and now—and, yes, it's very smoky." He waved his hand over the darkness. "That's life, dark? Yes, but the night will lift, the darkness pass away. Valley and sparkling lake will be there and the summit of the heaven kissing hills. Life cries to you with sweetest voice."

"Yes," she murmured, "with a sweet voice. And perhaps some day there will be light on the hills. But, oh, I'm torn in sunder this night. I wish I had died there at Milledale while my heart was young."

"I brought nothing into Kravonia," she said, "and I carry nothing out except this ring which monseigneur put on my finger—the ring of the balliffs of Volens."

"Keep it," said Lukovitch. "I think there will be no more balliffs of Volens, or some prince not of our choicing will take the title by his own will.
It will not be our balliff, as monseigneur was. You will be our balliff, though our eyes never see you, and you never see our old gray walls again.
Madame, have a kindly place in your heart for Volens. We shall forget your leadership. The light at Milledale may well be the last that we shall fight as free men."

"Volens is written on my heart," she answered. "I shall not forget."
She bade her friends farewell and then ordered Lukovitch to throw open the gate. She and the three Englishmen rode through Henry Brown leading the pack horse by the bridle. The mountains were growing gray with the first approaches of dawn.

As she rode it was probably foretold through Sophy well foretold to go past Lukovitch.
"Once be on this place," she said,
"and peace to the tomb where monseigneur lies buried."

"Once be on this head and fortune with thee," answered Lukovitch in the traditional words of farewell. He kissed her hand again, and they departed.

It was high morning when they rode up the ascent to St. Peter's pass and came to the spot where their cross stood.

"I have loved this land," at last she said. "It has given me much, and very much it has taken away. Now the face of it is to be changed. But in my heart the memory of it will not change." She looked across the valley, across the sparkling face of Lake Tait, to the gray walls of Volens and kissed her hand. "Farewell, monseigneur," she whispered very low.

The day of Kravonia was done. The head of the great snake had reached Slavina. Countess Ellenburg and young Alexis were in flight. Slavina took orders where he had looked to rule.
The death of monseigneur was indeed avenged. But there was no place for Sophy, the queen of a tempestuous hour.

They set their horses' heads toward the frontier. They began the descent on the other side. The lake was gone, the familiar hills vanished. Only in the eye of memory stood old Volens still set in its gray mountains. Sophy rode forth from Kravonia in her sheepskin and her silver ring, the last queen of Kravonia, the last balliff of Volens, the last chosen leader of the mountain men. But the memory of the red star lived after her—how she met Sophy loved monseigneur and turned to avenged him, how her face was fairer than the face of other women and more pale,
and how the red star glowed in sorrow and in joy, in love and in clash of arms, promising to some glory and to others death. In the street of Volens and in the cabins among the hills you may hear the tale of the red star yet.

To the unconquerable heart life stands unquenched. What danger had not shaken not even sorrow could overthrow. She rode into the future with Dunstanbury on her right hand, patience in his mind and in his heart hope. Some day the sun would shine on the summit of heaven kissing hills.

Webster's Dictionary on Baked Beans

in dry and continued heat, as in to-day he would say that

HEINZ Baked Beans

are the real thing—baked in the true sense of the word—baked as they ought to be baked to bring out their natural flavor—their dry, meaty, appetizing wholesomeness. HEINZ Baked Beans are baked, and baked in an oven.

There are three kinds—With Tomato Sauce; Plain Pork and Beans (Boston Style); Vegetarian—Without Pork.

They are put up in HEINZ Improved Tins hermetically sealed without solder—there is no lead to come in contact with the contents of the tin, so that all the natural goodness of the beans is retained in all its purity from oven to your table.

When you ask for baked beans—get baked beans.
Ask for the HEINZ kind, then you're sure.

CONFERS WITH SECRETARY ROOT

President Has Long Talk with State Department Officers.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., July 13.—President Roosevelt conferred Sunday afternoon with Secretary of State Elihu Root and Assistant and Acting Secretary of State Robert Bacon at the president's home on Sagamore Hill, for about four hours. The exact nature of their deliberations could not be learned. It is presumed, however, that state affairs of an important nature were the subject of their discussion. It is thought likely that the foremost subject was the situation at present existing between the United States and Venezuela.

Secretary Root, who completed a course at Muldoon's farm at White Plains, N. Y., Saturday, came across Long Island sound in the government yacht Albatross. Acting Secretary Bacon was at his home in Westbury, Long Island, and came to Sagamore Hill in an automobile.

Negro Wounds White Woman.
Joplin, Mo., July 13.—Because Mrs.
May Pinn, 19 years old, white, an attache of a carnival company, resented his advances, Will Wilson, a negro, 24 years old, Sunday morning struck her a terrible blow over the left temple, killing her, tied a rope around her neck, and according to his own confession, dragged the body 300 feet along the Price railroad track at Carl Junction, near here, the scene of the crime, and leaving the body returned to the place where he had murdered her.

T. J. BRYCE DIES SUDDENLY

PRESIDENT OF THE COLUMBUS
BASEBALL CLUB GONE.

Expires of Heart Disease Just Before Game with Toledo Opens in Home City.

Columbus, O., July 13.—Thomas J.
Bryce, known to sportsmen the country over as president of the Columbus American Association baseball club, died suddenly Sunday afternoon in a seat of the grandstand at Nott park where he had gone along with thousands of people expecting to witness the last game of the scheduled series between the Columbus and Toledo clubs. Heart disease was the cause.

For the last three years Mr. Bryce had been in poor health and several times his life had been despaired of.
For the past week his condition was improved and he found himself able to attend to such business matters as required his personal attention.

For 15 years Mr. Bryce had been engaged in mercantile business here.
Six years ago he undertook the work of popularizing baseball in Columbus and the success scored was a signal one. He is survived by a widow and two sons.

The baseball game was postponed in respect to the memory of Mr. Bryce.

SEEK RELIEF; FIND DEATH.

Many Persons Drowned While Bathing
on Hot Day.

Peoria, Ill., July 13.—Charles W.
Harris, a boat builder of Peoria, Ill., was drowned while swimming off a dock in Peoria Sunday. Harris dove off the pier and never came to the surface. It is thought he was either stricken with cramps or struck a rock and was knocked senseless. Harris was the builder of the Adlon, the fastest boat on the Illinois river. George Volland, 12 years old, was drowned near the amusement park above the city.

Millwaukee, July 13.—Two young men, both apparently from good families, drowned Sunday night when swimming in Milwaukee river.

Chicago, July 13.—While 200 men and boys sat or stood within a comparatively few feet of her, and in sight of nearly 1,000 others, an unidentified woman fell, or rolled purposely, from the north pier at the mouth of the Chicago river Sunday afternoon and drowned. Although she screamed repeatedly for assistance, not a hand in the crowd that watched her struggles in the water was lifted to save her.

Cleveland, O., July 13.—August
Hammer, 20 years of age, and Henry Rodka, 22 years of age, were drowned in the Ohio canal here Sunday while bathing in an effort to escape the oppressive heat.

Baltimore, Md., July 13.—Five men are known to have been drowned and three women and a man are believed to have met a like fate Sunday evening, when a very severe wind and rain storm passed over the harbor of this city, overturning several boats.

OBALDIA WINS EASILY.

He Is Elected President of the Republic of Panama.

Panama, July 13.—The presidential elections throughout the isthmus of Panama passed off Sunday without disturbance. Señor Don Jose Domingo de Obaldia, formerly minister to the United States and acting president during the absence of Dr. Amador, was elected president.

The supporters of Ricardo Arias,
who recently withdrew his candidacy, decided not to vote, and as a consequence, no opponent to Señor Obaldia was placed in nomination.

the wrath of a Glencoe policeman,
who fired on the party to stop them.

Hawser, 28 years of age, of Phil-lippi, Mich., shot and wounded his wife, fatally wounded her sister, shot at his father-in-law and two unknown men, and then attempted to end his own life here Sunday. Hawser and his wife were separated and he was inflamed with jealousy over a report that his wife was about to seek a divorce.

CITY TURNS OUT FOR A CLEAN-UP

ST. PAUL MAYOR ORDERS CLEAN-UP WEEK IN PREPARATION.

THOUSANDS ARE EXPECTED

Visitors Will Be Given Freedom of the City When They Arrive on Tuesday.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
St. Paul, Minn., July 13.—Headed by the new mayor, the entire city is acting as a committee to give the thousands who come this week for the Olympic games, the time of their lives. The mayor has ordered a "clean-up" week and the citizens are falling in with a will. Streets and alleys and vacant lots are being cleaned and St. Paul will be neat as a pin from end to end when the thousands of visitors begin to arrive. The city council does not look for trouble but as an added precaution has fortified the already excellent police department with a liberal appropriation for the hire of plain clothes men to check up on such predatory characters as come to the convention grounds, and put them where they will have more time to meditate than to pick pockets. Chief O'Connor's "flying squad" has been ordered to clear the city of suspicious characters and all such will be summarily dealt with and without argument.

An excellent emergency hospital with a staff of twenty-five physicians has been established in the center of the city for the care of visitors, and a corps of nurses will be in charge during the week. Dr. J. T. Christensen will serve as medical director and the nurses will be under the charge of Miss Maud McKim. Operating in connection with the hospital, Red Cross automobiles will patrol the city during the week, to render immediate aid to those who need it. The druggists of the city have caught the fever and will fill prescriptions free for all visitors during the entire week.

Hotel space is already completely exhausted but private homes are being thrown open by the thousands and some of the most attractive residences in St. Paul have been offered for the accommodation of nobles and their wives. The hotel committee is now confident that it can care for all who come. Special baggage and reception arrangements have been completed and every visitor will be met on arrival and escorted to his quarters without delay. Shrimers' baggage will be separate and apart from the thousands of tons of other baggage passing through the union station and will be handled by a separate corps.

The electrician's union has temporarily suspended union rules and its members are working night and day on the huge electrical display which will cover the principal business streets of the city. Each Shrinian temple in the world will have its own "ray of light" stand which line the principal business streets. These ornamental standards bearing clusters of lights are surmounted with a huge electrical Shrinian emblem and the immense white globe at the top of each standard bears the name of a Shrinian temple and the city in which it is located. The display is unique and will be one of the novel attractions of the week.

Many of the electrical workers are working twenty hours a day, eating their meals on their wagons and sleeping whenever and wherever they can, in their anxiety to complete the immense task on time. Several miles of streets are in the hands of the electricians and the display is being rapidly completed. It will be ready to turn on the current Saturday night and will be the most striking and elaborated electrical display the city has ever seen.

Nature has supplied an additional attraction in holding the Mississippi at flood stage. The water is now two feet above the danger mark, but because of the high banks does not threaten the city. The flats above and below the city are under six feet of water, however, and the sight is unusual and very striking. In several places the great river is more than three miles wide.

OLYMPIC GAMES OPEN IN LONDON

ATHLETES FROM TWENTY COUNTRIES ARE ASSEMBLED.

ALL PARADE BEFORE KING

Preparations on an Immense Scale—Americans Protest in Vain Against Several of the Rules.

London, July 13.—Athletes from 20 countries are gathered in and near London for the Olympic games, which opened Monday and which, it is believed, will prove the greatest games of modern times.
The competitors from the four corners of the globe constitute a small army in themselves, almost every country, following the example of America and Great Britain, having entered in the various events the full quota of men allowed by the rules. In most cases a round dozen. As there are 25 events on the program, the number of athletes taking part will total nearly 2,000, many of the men, of course, representing their respective countries in more than one event.

The original idea was to devote the opening day entirely to formal ceremonies, including a parade of the athletes before the king, but the committee in charge eventually decided to run off some of the preliminaries, and the first heat of the 1,500 meter race will be started as soon as possible after formalities are ended. The parade, which will be the largest of its kind ever held, is the feature of the ceremonies.

Stadium an Immense Affair.
The preparations are on a gigantic scale. The stadium will seat 35,000 spectators and there is room for 25,000 more without seats. By making use of a strip surrounding the stadium, standing room also can be found for 50,000 additional, but this probably will not be necessary. The grounds within the stadium proper provide three athletic tracks, a swimming bath and dressing rooms for 2,000 competitors.

The turf track for hurdle racing, the cinder path for running and the concrete banked for cycling have been tested and pronounced the best in England. Several records already have been broken on these tracks and it may be confidently predicted that more will go when the chosen athletes of the world meet there.

Friction Over Rules.
As was to be expected, some little friction has arisen over the rules governing some of the contests. The Americans have contended that they should be permitted the privilege of digging a hole for the pole in the vaulting competition, but the Amateur Athletic association, the rules of which will govern the meeting, has decided against this. To be compelled at the last moment to adopt a new method of vaulting probably will go hard against Gilbert, the American vaultier who holds the world's championship, and who recently made a vault of 13 feet in practice.

The association also has decided against the American protest in the question of heat drawings. The American committee pointed out that by the method to be adopted it might happen that all the athletes of one country would be drawn for the same heat, which would be manifestly unfair, but the association held that the possibility of this was so remote that it need not be taken into consideration. Silphs, therefore, bearing the names of the various contestants, will be drawn from a hat, with the object of selecting competitors in each heat.

The sports are to last a fortnight and will occupy the morning and afternoon of each day.

Great Relay Race.
New York, July 13.—Over a course nearly a thousand miles long, 2,000 boy athletes, members of the Young Men's Christian association, will race against time this week in an effort to break all records between New York and Chicago. The boys are to carry a message from the mayor of New York to the mayor of Chicago.

A relay race as extensive as this has never before been attempted and interest in the affair is great, especially in athletic circles. Each of the runners will carry the message half a mile and the average time for each half mile will be about two minutes 28 seconds, according to the tests that have been made.

Starts Wednesday Morning.
At ten a. m. next Wednesday the first boy will be sent away from the starting point at the city hall here. He will be handed a silver tube containing the mayor's message and then a pistol shot will start him on the first stage of the journey, the course from the city hall being up Broadway.

How enthusiastically the members of the Y. M. C. A. have entered into the contest is evidenced by the large number who made application to participate. More than 100,000 applications were received. Each branch of the Y. M. C. A. in the cities along the course will furnish the runners for its district, taking as the standard of selection boys who represent the spirit of the association.

LATEST IN SAFETY RAZOR

ADJUSTABLE T-SQUARE

Manipulated Same as the Old-Fashioned Unprotected Razor.

The introduction of the safety razor was undoubtedly welcomed by a great many men who found it impossible to shave with the old-fashioned razor without cutting their face. In direct contrast with this is the peculiar fact that those men who formerly used the old-fashioned razor successfully were unable to shave with the safety razor without injuring the face. The difference in the methods of handling the two razors readily accounts for this. A shaving man became acquainted with the face, and, accordingly designed the safety razor shown here, which in form closely resembles the old-fashioned razor, and is manipulated in exactly the same manner. A guard is provided, as in the ordinary safety razor, which is attached directly to the handle, the blade of the razor being detachable, and having two sharp edges. The guard is also double-edged, to pro-

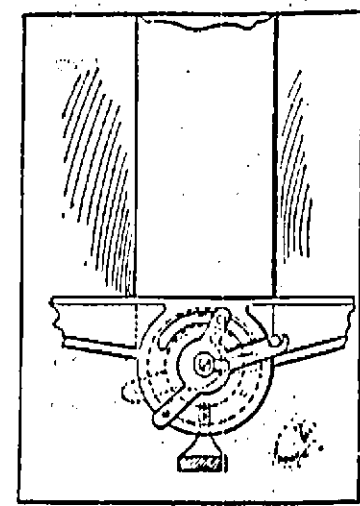

Can Be Quickly Set to Draw Lines at Varying Angles.

That very useful and indispensable instrument of the draftsman and artist, the T-square, has never been improved upon its original form, but remains practically the same as when originally designed. That it is susceptible of improvement is demonstrated in a recently patented device of a Philadelphia man, which is shown in the accompanying illustration. By the introduction of an adjustable headpiece this T-square can be made to do the work of the triangle of different degrees. In the headpiece are several adjustable stops, whereby angles of 30, 40 or 60 degrees can be instantly formed. Angles of other degrees can also be made by adjustment, but these must first be determined and the ruling edges set. They are then clamped in position by a thumbscrew. Such an instrument should prove a valuable time saver to the draftsman, especially in cases where numerous parallel lines on an angle are to be drawn.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GARTERS

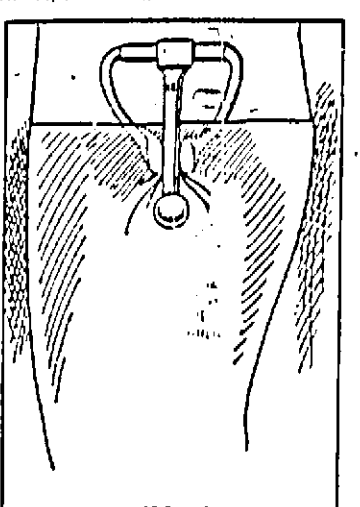

Clasp Which Holds the Stocking Closely Around the Leg.

The ordinary garter with clasp which is worn by the average man is generally rejected by the fellow who is endowed with more than the allotted yardsticks. He finds that the clasp chafes his fine skin and is more apt to slip than a garter. A better clasp more suited to his purpose is shown here, the invention of a Jersey city man. It consists of a wire loop, on which is spring-hinged a tongue having a knob on the free end. This tongue fits tightly between the curved bones. The clasp is placed over the top edge of a stocking, the tongue being swung free of the loop and the clasp slipped into position. The top of the stocking is then drawn tight through the loop, as it is to encompass the leg and the tongue allowed to spring into closed position. The top of the stocking is then held tightly around the leg, preventing it slipping down. All men who find garters disagreeable will undoubtedly see the advantages of this simple garter clasp.

endeavor to influence the directors to substitute others of up-to-date construction and designed with some idea of assuring ease to the pupils while working. A combined desk, chair and receptacle designed along the proper lines is shown here, patented by an Alabama man. The desk is adjustable, so also are the chair and the receptacle, the latter providing a convenient place at the side of the chair on which to place books, papers and similar articles. Both the desk and the chair can be adjusted to accommodate children of varying ages. All three of the parts are connected by iron bars, so that they cannot be easily separated after once adjusted.

The Castro Asphalt Deposit, Formerly the New York and Bermusez Company's.

IS CASTRO TO BE "SPANKED."

"Closed, by order of President Castro." This is the sign that appears on the headquarters of many a foreign enterprise in Venezuela.

"Closed, by order of Uncle Sam." This sign on the United States legation at Caracas is our answer to the Venezuelan gamecock. But Castro himself is beginning to think that he has overplayed his hand. As long as he could bully and bully-doze in safety, it was a game he thoroughly enjoyed, but with the consular and diplomatic representatives of the United States on their way home, Venezuela is partially left at the mercy of foreign governments, whose citizens have been despoiled and who have now received the strongest hint from our state department that they can go as far as they like in getting satisfaction out of Castro, always providing they do not seize territory. For it is not only United States interests that Castro has "sequestered," the British salt and match com-pantes were wiped out of existence by a stroke of Castro's pen last March. France has never had satisfaction for the seizure of the French railway and the summary closing up of the French cable offices. Italy has a grievance; Holland's feelings are outraged by the seizure of Dutch vessels in June, and among the South American states Venezuela has not a single friend. If any other country had treated the United States as Venezuela has treated America and American interest a spanking would probably have been administered long ago. But Venezuela's very indifference and weakness has been her best protection. The idea of spanking Castro created little enthusiasm because there was so little honor to be got out of the job. Furthermore, few people understand the complicated claims against Venezuela, and Castro has been clever enough to bring the issues with so many counterclaims and accusations that a good many people actually believed that there might be some right on his side. Castro's spanking may be still further delayed, but there is a world-wide conviction that he needs his spanking badly, and a grin will spread from the eastern to the western hemisphere when he gets it.

LAUNCH BLOWS UP FOUR MEN KILLED

TWO SURVIVORS PICKED UP AFTER 12 HOURS IN WATER.

VICTIMS WERE PROMINENT

Distressing Accident Off Marion, Mass.—Explosion of Locomotive Boiler Fatal to Two Trainmen.

Marion, Mass., July 13.—Four prominent summer residents of this town and Falmouth met death through an explosion on board a 45-foot launch off here Saturday night. Two survivors were picked up Sunday after having been in the water for 12 hours.

The dead: Roland Worthington, Boston; John T. Trull, Waburn; Joseph S. Dent, Milton, and George Savory, Marblehead, captain of the launch.

The saved: A. P. Tarbell, Marblehead, and Edward Pecker, Boston.

Story of the Survivors.
Pecker, who was clinging to an oar, and Tarbell, who was supported by a life preserver, were able to swim, and they remained together until picked up by a lobster fisherman going out in the early morning to haul his pots.

Mr. Tarbell, who owned the Dolphin, as the launch was called, said the boat started out from Marion on a short pleasure cruise and was well out in the middle of Buzzards bay when the explosion occurred. Savory, the engineer, was suddenly blown into the air and was probably dead when he struck the water. The boat caught fire immediately and Tarbell called to his comrades to leap overboard. He strapped a life preserver about himself before he leaped, and Mr. Pecker, who is connected with the Boston Banking firm of Rollins & Sons, seized an oar and followed. So far as they knew, none of the others in the party jumped. Either they could not swim and preferred to cling to the disabled launch until help came, or else they were stunned by the explosion.

Mr. Worthington was a large owner of real estate in the Boston financial district, but had retired from active business. He was 59 years old. Mr. Trull, who was 56 years old, was well known in Boston mercantile circles and had a place of business there. He lived in Waburn. Mr. Dent was connected with the office of the Occochee Consolidated Mining company of Boston.

Engine Blows Up; Two Killed.
Columbus, O., July 13.—William Wettermann, engineer, and H. H. Haus, fireman, both of Columbus, were killed early Sunday by the explosion of the boiler of a Hocking Valley freight locomotive at Powell station, 15 miles north of Columbus. The locomotive had just helped a freight train up the steep grade at Powell and was standing at the station awaiting to be uncoupled when the accident occurred. The boiler was hurled 60 feet. The bodies of both of the men were horribly mangled and scalded. Wettermann had run a locomotive for 25 years. The cause of the accident is not known, but one theory of the officials is that the water got low in the boiler.

Vanderbilt Horse Wins Again.
Paris, July 13.—W. H. Vanderbilt added another classic stake to his long list of victories when his bay colt Senack II, Sunday won the prize of the president of the republic, valued at $20,000, at Maleson Ladites. The race was at one mile four and a half furlongs.

Honduran Rebels in Retreat.
Managua, Nicaragua, July 13.—Advices received here state that the Honduran revolutionists have abandoned the town of Graciosa, which they captured and have fled into Salvador.

are the irresistible powers that move the modern world more than the fabled lever of Archimedes. They burden the railways, through the theatres and crowd our place with multitudes who know enough to know that they are getting more than value received for their money. Old timers, relics of the fossiliferous age of merchandise, whose sole and only idea of profit is 100 per cent, stand aghast at prices that seem to them the name of folly and the knell of trade.
